

Structural Pest Management: Expanding the Relationship with VT

Tim Kring – Department Head, Entomology – Virginia Tech

Together the faculty and staff of the Virginia Tech Agricultural Experiment Station and the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service provide information directly to the general public, but should also be viewed as a resource for Virginia's Pest Management Professionals. This session will describe the expertise available in entomology and demonstrate our capacity to provide relevant information to the industry. It will also allow opportunity for attendees to identify and recommend areas for growth in this relationship.